and I must say he was a pleasure to photograph. Joe and I left Frank Wade's room and went to the principal's office for the formal interview. Joe had provided some very useful notes on the social studies department but did not really have much to say during the interview. I had to make up a whole series of quotations for him when it came time to write the article. At 10 AM I left the CAHS, having dropped off my application for the position of substitute teacher in Patrick Walsh's office. I was dressed in my best bib and tucker for the formal visit to CAHS, as were many of the members of the social studies department, all of whom were very excited about my visit. I went from the High School to the News where I spent three hours and wrote the Pascoe article. No concluding quotation from H.G. Wells is wonderful. I'm sure nothing quite like it has ever appeared in the NEWS. I do want the social studies teacher to be pleased with the article, and I gave Joe Pascoe a copy of the article on Thursday night for his approval. He added the name of the psychology textbook that is used by Frank Wade, but other than that he did not change a word. No article will be published in the NEWS of 9-21-83. After I gave Rosemary a copy of the article, I watered the public flower boxes. I gave them a good soaking. HLRP telephoned to say that on Monday, RTP will have surgery. Not just a needle biopsy but major surgery. A tissue sample of the tumor will be taken, for testing, and if the tumor can be removed, it will. All that will take place on Monday. HLRP will go to Hershey for the operation I believe. When I had regrouped from all that, I prepared for the 7:30 P.M. meeting of the Historical Society. Tomaine came by around 6:45 PM and at 7 PM we walked down to Mister Donut for coffee to carry into the meeting, which took place in 301 Carbondale City Hall.
